Dear Chairman Julius Genachowski:

The Kristin Brooks Hope Center (KBHC), and The Sportsgrants Foundation have agreed to work together to ensure that the National Hopeline Network 1-800-SUICIDE and KBHC's other valuable programs are supported financially.

The KBHC is a non-profit organization founded by H. Reese Butler II in 1998 after the death by suicide of his wife Kristin. One of the organizations programs is the National Hopeline Network 1-800-SUICIDE which routes over 350,000 suicidal callers each year.

The Sportsgrants Foundation is a registered 501c3 and certified charitable organization. In our first two years we've raised a total of $4.2 million for the charities we have chosen to support. The Sportsgrants Foundation is not affiliated with any other charity, but we select 6 projects each year that we champion to our 16,000 donors. This year, we are dedicating our resources to KBHC at no cost or risk to KBHC. Our intention is to raise $150,000 for KBHC. We are not being paid by KBHC and we do not have a contract. We are doing this because we believe they are worthy of our support.

We understand that KBHC and their telephone provider Micktel have estimated the annual phone bill at far less than the $150,000 level we are aiming for. If the cost exceeds $150,000 we at Sportsgrants Foundation will work to either reduce that cost or raise the additional funds needed to make sure the line is never at risk of being shut off due to a failure to pay the phone bill.

Sincerely,

Scott Zagarino
